On the transition between rock, jungle, and ocean, on a piece of Phuket known as the Millionaire's Mile, the luxury home Villa Amanzi Kamala overtrumps the other villas in the area. With its cutting-edge design, breath taking swimming pool, and fantastic view of the sea, this is a fantasy holiday escape.

Far from the hubbub of Kamala and Patong Beach—but actually as nearby as the crow flies and practically the opposite in atmosphere—Villa Amanzi Kamala bathes in tranquillity, affluence, and luxury. The unique holiday home is nestled in a secluded estate against a richly forested cliff. The massive granite shapes of the Kamala headlands were included in the design and play an important role. ‘The home grows out from the rock,’ say the architects. ‘The rock provides a feeling of solidity that contrasts with the openness of the house, reinforcing the dynamism and vibrancy that pays homage to the magic of the location.’ Characterised by clean lines and bright, minimalist interiors that invite the outside in, Amanzi Kamala forms a glimmering presence on the jungle-clad hillside.

This three-storey villa is a true visual masterpiece designed to celebrate—not outshine—its beautiful tropical surroundings. The hill’s steep rock face forms a natural wall on the two lower levels, while the chic living area fully opens to the pool and gardens to let the breeze flow through. The 15-metre pool extending toward the sea is the dazzling focal point of the villa, especially at sunset, when sea, sky, and pool are all set ablaze with crimson colours.

In Villa Amanzi Kamala, the indoor and outdoor harmoniously flow into each other. Even with the glass partitions closed and the air-conditioning on, the main living and dining room feel like an extension of the tropical surroundings. The holiday home has six bedrooms: a luxurious master suite (with bathtub and balcony) and five minimalistic en-suite guest rooms, all with a view of the sea. ‘The modern guest kitchen, with indoor and outdoor dining areas, celebrates easy holiday living, with the Thai dishes of the talented in-house chef adding a delicious wow-factor to every meal,’ states the Elite Havens Group that rents out the holiday villa. ‘The chef is one of the five staff members attending to your needs in-house, with the villa manager also on hand to assist with any transport or tour bookings for those eager to discover Phuket’s sights and delights.’

Amanzi Kamala offers a complete escape from the world, yet its location between Kamala and Patong beaches makes it a good launching point for a myriad of Phuket adventures. A day at the beach, a cultural tour, a culinary exploration, or a scenic yacht cruise—all these activities and more are within reach and can be easily arranged with the assistance of the villa’s manager.
